Dear Md. Anamul Haque,

We are very pleased to welcome your institution as a JSTOR participant. You and your users can now access JSTOR content by going directly to http://www.jstor.org and selecting Search or Browse from the menu bar.

Your institutions access a has been activated at the following ip /IPs:

103.148.250.0/24
103.132.184.0/24

Kindly confirm access on JSTOR@globepub.com If we do not receive a confirmation within 7 days the same will be considered as a confirmation.

Please find attached here a link to getting started with Marc Records as well as a link to the KBART File title list. I've also included a link here to a LibGuide that will help institutions get started with JSTOR.

JSTOR can be accessed remotely through the below access methods:

1. Proxy server — allows users to authenticate through a portal or single-sign on method.

2. SAML authentication — JSTOR currently supports SAML authentication through either Shibboleth or OpenAthens. To read more about what is needed for SAML authentication and which federations we belong to, please visit our SAML support page.

3. Google SSO — JSTOR supports access through Google Social Sign On. We need is a unique domain for your institution to get it setup. To read more about Google SSO, please visit our Access Management Overview page.

You can read about these and other remote access options on the support site.

Feel free to contact in case of any queries.
